What is the TLC?

At TLC, we help students thrive by supporting their learning needs at home and at school. We partner with families and educators to provide practical strategies, accommodations, coaching, and advocacy - while also helping families connect with therapeutic and diagnostic services when needed as the last level of support.

About the TLC at ISW

TLC launched its pilot program at the ISW during the 2025-2026 school year to support international and military families. As part of the school support team, we work alongside teachers, students, and families to identify learning needs, provide practical strategies, and help students thrive. We also offer term-based group coaching programs and help families navigate therapeutic services within the German healthcare system when needed.

Meet the team

Sultana Rosario, MS, CCC-SLP, is a speech-language pathologist, founder, and Executive Director of Rosario Therapy Center and Therapeutic Learning Collective, where she personally oversees all clinical treatment. A graduate of CUNY Lehman College, she is ASHA-certified and licensed in Florida and New York, with specialty training in feeding, myofunctional therapy, and autism. For more than 23 years, she has worked to build and bridge access to services in her community, helping infants, children, adolescents, and adults reach their full potential. Her integrated, collaborative, and evidence-based approach centers on partnerships with families and community providers.

Nora Helenius Jassak, MS, CCC-SLP, is a pediatric speech-language pathologist with 29 years of experience working with children from birth to three through high school. She specializes in articulation and language development, with additional training in Autism, and brings a collaborative, empathetic, and creative approach through a family-centered coaching model. Nora believes that connecting with children's strengths and interests creates the foundation for learning and growth. She currently supports TLC on the administrative side, partnering with ISW's student support team (SST) to help parents connect with the programs and resources they need.

Simone is an Occupational Therapist who is passionate about helping students thrive both inside and outside the classroom. Through personalized coaching, she supports children with executive functioning, emotional regulation, learning difficulties, ADHD, autism, and fine motor skills. She has special training in executive functioning, sand therapy, ADHD and Autism. She strives to understand the whole child - looking at their environment, key relationships, needs, and unique strengths to create a strong foundation for growth. Simone loves working closely with families and educators to build students' confidence and empower them to reach their full potential.
